- These trails are maintained by the Malabar Trails and Greenways Committee. If you would like to get involved, please call the Town of Malabar at (321) 727-7764, or go to our Virtual Trailhead <http://malabartrails.org/>
- USE THIS TRAIL SYSTEM AT YOUR OWN RISK. The property owner is indemnified from liability by Florida Statute 316.0085. YOU are personally responsible for your own safety.
- Trails in this system are considered Medium (blue) difficulty. Expect sandy areas, roots, and moderate drops. Trails may have trees down, or be blocked by debris at any time. Trail conditions can change at any time, so it is up to the trail user to keep themselves safe.
- The trail user is responsible for their own safety. Use trails at your own risk.
- DO NOT MODIFY TRAIL SURFACE
- NO motorized vehicles of any kind, except ADA exceptions
- HELMETS ARE REQUIRED TO RIDE HERE
- Dogs are allowed, on leash, in Malabar's Cameron preserve only (see Map)
- Horses allowed in Cameron Preserve and Malabar East, but not Malabar West
- This trail system utilizes one-way and two-way trails. Most of the complex, narrow trails are "one way", and it is best to travel that way for safety. Bikes: Please adhere to one way designation
 - "One Way" is the Preferred Direction of Travel. If You Choose to Travel Opposite the Preferred Direction, be vigilant and yield the ROW to the preferred direction

Trail Name: Description / Features (West to East)	Where on Map ?
AI Tuttle Trail: The AI Tuttle trail is Bi-Directional, and a paved, multi-user trail. Expect walkers, runners, bicycles, equestrians. The AI Tuttle Trail runs predominately East – West, and goes all the way from Port Malabar Blvd to the Malabar Sandhill Trailhead on Marie Street (near Malabar Road). Bridge to Capon Street in Palm Bay, & one large bridge over a depression marsh. Excellent wildlife viewing on the Canal, connects to Malabar Park via an abandoned concrete road	Black Dashed line – North boundary of off-road trail system, & S to Malabar Road
Red & Purple Trail (West): These are the best (and most difficult) of the mountain biking trails in Palm Bay and EELp Malabar West Sanctuary. Better known as "Ho Chi Minh" (Purple) and "Dead Bike" (Red), these are the core of the traditional mountain bike trails. Excellent views of Turkey Creek and the Turkey Creek flood plain. Dry year round, even in high rain season. Most trails are marked one way. No horses on these trails, please.	Purple and Red Line – North West section of map

Trail Name: Description / Features	Where on Map ?
Blue Trail (West): This loop is connected to Red Trail via two long, narrow bridges, which cross the Turkey Creek flood plain. Blue is a challenging trail that has wet sections during the high rain season. Much of this area is in scrub habitat restoration, but shade has been left near the trail sections.	Blue Line – South West section of map
Yellow Trail East (Cameron): Yellow Trail East is One-Way, and runs predominately East, toward EELp Malabar East Sanctuary, and the trails that lead to Malabar's Sandhill Trailhead. Trail is marked with Yellow Diamonds, with arrows and "E" to indicate East. Cameron Trail Shelter is on the Green Trail, and visible from Yellow East	Yellow Line – In Cameron Preserve, Center of Map
Yellow Trail West (Cameron): Yellow Trail West is One-Way, and runs predominately West, toward EELp Malabar West Sanctuary, and the Red & Purple trails near Turkey Creek. Yellow West includes some very twisty, shaded single-trac. Trail is marked with Yellow Diamonds, with arrows and "W" to indicate West.	Yellow Line – In Cameron Preserve, Center of Map
Green Trail (Cameron): The Green Trail is Bi-Directional, and runs predominately North – South, connecting the N. Corey Road Trailhead to the AI Tuttle Trail (Paved). It is generally easy. Generally dry even in high rain season. The Cameron Trail Shelter (CTS) is on this trail, near the intersection with Yellow-East	Green Line – In Cameron Preserve, Center of Map
Blue Diamond Trail (Cameron): The Blue Trail is Bi-directional, and runs predominately East – West, and serves as a local connector to other trails in Cameron Preserve. This trail is rooty and difficult, and also known as "The Route of All Evil" trail. Excellent views of depression marsh. Fun & aerobic for more experienced trail users.	Blue Line – In Cameron Preserve. Marked with Blue Diamonds. Center of Map.
Red Trail (East): This loop-trail is in Brevard County EELp Sanctuary Malabar East. Views of Scrub habitat, lakes, & depression marshes. Crosses the Malabar Woods Road, an abandoned concrete road in the center of Malabar East Sanctuary. Connects to AI Tuttle Trail and Malabar Sandhill trailhead in the East.	Red Line – In East Section of Map
Semi-Secret Trail (Turkey Creek Sanctuary): This trail connects "Ho Chi Minh" (Purple) trail to the South bank of the C1 canal, and from there you can go further west to the Grapefruit Trails (GFT). Classic deep woods single-trac with boardwalks at each end (East boardwalk has an observation bench area), and excellent views of Turkey Creek	Yellow line – in farthest East section of map. 2, 1-way trails shown as single line on map
